EMO MILANO 2021 is the world machine tool exhibition to be hosted at the Exhibition Centre of fieramilano Rho from October 4 to 9, 2021. The General Commissioner for this exhibition is Luigi Galdabini. He was appointed during the General Assembly of CECIMO, the European Association of Machine Tool Industries. His task is to supervise the organization of this exhibition and participate in the promotion of this event through a roadshow of press conferences.

In Italy, EMO is organized alternately in Hanover and Milan. It is developed by EFIM–ENTE FIERE ITALIANE MACCHINE, a specialist in organization of sector exhibitions. It is promoted by FONDAZIONE UCIMU, the Foundation linked with the Italian machine tools, robots, and automation systems manufacturers' association.

EMO MILANO 2021 is set to transform fieramilano Rho into the biggest digital factory ever set up within an exhibition complex. The exhibition is expected to highlight metal forming and metal cutting machine tools, production systems, enabling technologies, solutions for interconnected and digital factories, and additive manufacturing. EMO MILANO 2021 is a meeting point of the most-qualified operators in the industry.

Luigi Galdabini commented, “Thanks to the experience in the organization of the six previous editions (1979, 1987, 1995, 2003,2009, 2015), EMO MILANO 2021 will be able to surprise its operators, as it has always done, showcasing “the magic world of metalworking” - as highlighted in the slogan chosen for EMO MILANO 2021 - attracting visitors from all over the world, interested in learning about the technological trends characterizing the production of the future.”

He adds, “After all, besides the universal offering of technologies for the manufacturing production, the strong point of EMO MILANO 2021 is its location. Indeed, the trade show takes place in the modern exhibition center, completely reserved for the world metalworking exhibition, recognized all over the world for the functionality of its spaces and services available and for its perfect integration with the international transport system.”

The Italian edition of EMO can rely on Milan, the city at the top among the touristic destinations. Thanks to the new Renaissance, started in 2015, and of the previous Italian edition of EMO, which made the city a center of high appeal for business Luigi Galdabini, born in 1958, is CEO of Galdabini S.p.A., a company located in Cardano al Campo (Varese). This company is a leader in the production of metal forming machine tools and machines for mechanical tests. Luigi is a Past President of UCIMU-SISTEMI PERPRODURRE, a Board member of the Association, a member of the Italian Delegation of CECIMO, European Association of Machine Tool Industries, of which he was President in the two-year period 2015-2017.

EMO MILANO 2015 hosted 1,600 exhibiting companies, on an exhibit area of 120,000 sq. m. and registering over 155,000 visits of operators coming from 120 countries. The hallmark of EMO MILANO was the international origin of the exhibitors. In 2015, foreign exhibitors were 68 percent of the total.
